Inclusive Workplace Training, At Your Convenience

Powerful Messages, Full Legal Disclosure, in a Time-Efficient Format...

If you've had human relations training in the past, you already know that reciting the "big list of rules" just isn't helpful.

TSOD's workshops engage your employees in meaningful discussions: Thought-provoking scenarios that work-through the gray areas where issues most often arise.

Yes, we'll provide the required legal disclosure. But history teaches us that it's just not enough. We help employees make good decisions... Decisions that aren't always well-described by the "big list of rules."

Tailored specifically for your organization, you can count on TSOD's inclusive workplace training programs to help your staff avoid misunderstandings, hostility, and legal entanglements.

These programs pay for themselves immediately. You'll benefit from training that puts professional relationships in a much clearer light.

Programs at Your Location, to Benefit Your Team, Exclusively

Your team is unique, your needs are unique, and your training should be unique. TSOD's onsite workshops offer the most effective and time-efficient benefit to your organization.

We never conduct public, hotel-based seminars because "singling out" employees for human relations training can create a whole new set of problems.

By conducting team-specific training, you'll benefit from shared insights, new solutions, and a refreshed perspective. And you'll pay far less than the cost of shipping employees to hotel seminars one-by-one.

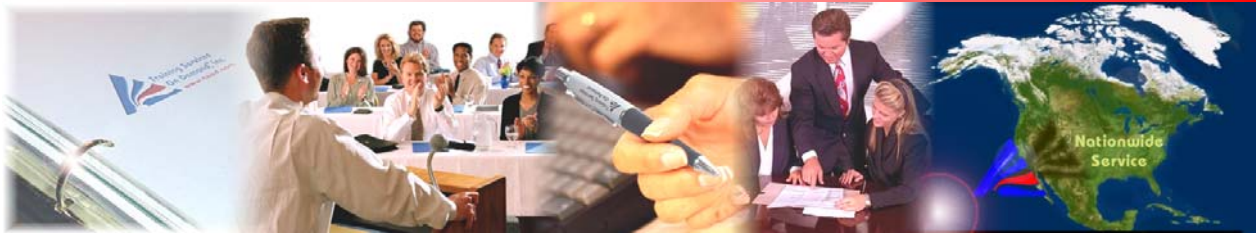

Easily Complete Up To Three Workshops Per Day . . .

Description

The program stresses the implications of Sexual Harassment. Participants will learn the potentially devastating consequences of offensive behavior, both to the company and to the offender.

At the same time, the workshop is upbeat and positive in nature, ensuring that participants don't leave the program under a dark cloud. By working interactively and energetically with your group, we ensure that your Sexual Harassment Prevention training is as non-threatening and enjoyable as possible.

The curriculum is uncommonly meaningful: We provide more than an "off-limits" laundry list. Participants learn how others may interpret words, gestures, paraphernalia, and personal contact. This gives attendees the ability to think-through the gray areas (where problems most frequently arise) and make correct choices.

Above all, the workshop focuses on respect. Using mutual consideration and professionalism as standards, this workshop helps employees adopt a high standard for workplace decorum: One that helps your organization avoid the consequences of offensive behavior.

The program combines facilitator-led discussions, video presentations, and small-group discussions to create a compelling and memorable diversity learning experience. Participants learn how the workplace is evolving and becoming more diverse. And they discover the value of diversity and multicultural teamwork in their own organization.

The interactive nature of this course ensures that each participant gets involved in defining diversity issues, examining the implications of those issues, and suggesting realistic solutions. By reinforcing participant observations with case studies and a short (twenty minute) video presentation, the workshop delivers an uncommonly meaningful message.
